Around And About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

Goodrich Bassett, secretary for the Orange County Builders exchange, invites me to a barbecue for next Saturday. Goodrich, bring it to me. I can't get to it. The motivation is restricted, the spirit is willing but the flesh is weak. Of what's the use stalling around. My doctor said I couldn't go. So please don't have barbecues when I have boils.

There's a lot of little Cecil Brummers in my bedroom, but there isn't any use of the fern friends getting jealous about it. They're flowers.

To the unknown fern friend: You sent the right kind of flowers. The kind which are of record, which moth and rust do not corrupt or steal. Blossoms are the handwork of God, and He recreates them for our pleasure and enjoyment. Messages of sympathy do not fade, and coming from a source of affliction have a much deeper significance. By comparison I am the lesser of the two sufferers. May I assure you of the encouragement your communication gave me. Gee, I'm feeling better already. And may I express the hope that you shall speedily overcome your affliction.

This is the jinx day, Friday, the 13th, for those who are a little jittery. Superstitions never get my goat. Having arrived on the 13th of a certain month of a certain year—guess that's telling 'em—I have scorned the horridities which beset mankind, and gave leaning ladders the merry ha, ha, black cats the high sign, and wink at the evil eye. If you have a run of hard luck coming, you'll get it—cat or no cat.

Want to apologize to Frank Harwood for not being able to help put Air Mail week over. I haven't been walking on air or riding on air for three weeks, and if there is any air left in my vocabulary it can be measured in fractions. Fact is all the air is out of my tires. I would like to see what's on the cachet so beautifully symbolic of the city, but I can tell that postmaster one thing—if the fern friends have been overlooked the design won't interest me.

To the Church street correspondent: Thank you much and much for the "hurry up and get well" card, and the inspirational boost poetically phrased. I like your philosophy—and interest in a case which for some few weeks has been boiling with an anxiety to "get going" again. Communications of personal welfare and best wishes are classified along with the doctor. They help me get well. Jeremy Taylor said: "Amongst true friends there is no fear of losing anything."

Science has made a remarkable discovery, according to report, as to how to make the heart young again. The new process is supposed to aid angina pectoris patients, and it may do it. What I am more interested in is some discovery which will take a hold off the left leg without pain, and throw it in the trash pile. Of course you can get along without a leg, but it would break my heart to do so.

Seattle strikers tie up all American shipping, and the tonnage goes to foreign boats. Swell contribution to the administration's recovery program. That's like asking for bread and getting something in return you couldn't eat.

Secretary Roper says that a survey shows that depression has hit bottom. Yes, but it hit too hard for many of us.

Orange Hauling Put Under Convoy After Violence

NEW COURT HOUSE, PLAN

County May Build With PWA Funds

Visions of a million-dollar county office building and courthouse began rising here again today, as the house of representatives passed President Roosevelt's $2,500,000,000 lending-spending program—including $965,000,000 for public works.

Los Angeles county already is applying to PWA for a $6,000,000 courthouse and $3,000,000 county office building.

Prospects of a new building to house offices here—several of them recently pushed out into rented quarters because of lack of space—may be discussed soon, although officials are reluctant to add to the county's debt by borrowing for the new building.

Under tentative plans, the $1,000,000 building would be financed by an approximate $450,000 outright federal grant and a loan of $550,000 from the government.

The projected building, discussed here for several years, might be a four or five-story office building covering the entire block now occupied by the courthouse and hall of records.

JURY FINDS ROSS GUILTY

Lecl E. Ross of Santa Ana, former superior court reporter, faced sentences of five years in prison and $5000 fine today as he stood convicted of four counts of sending obscene matter through the U. S. mails.

Successful in his own defense at another trial two months ago, Ross failed to escape conviction on the present charge. He was first indicted, tried and acquitted of receiving obscene matter for distribution; and was promptly indicted again on the new charge by the federal grand jury.

The jury in Judge Ralph E. Jenney's federal court in Los Angeles, reportedly voting 10 to 2 for conviction on the first ballot, was out an hour and 40 minutes late yesterday.

Ross again acted as his own attorney, opposing Deputy U. S. Dist. Atty. Norman W. Neuken, and contending the prosecution could not prove he actually mailed the salacious letters introduced in evidence, assertedly sent from the Santa Ana post office.

He filed notice of motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment, which will be filed formally Monday and heard later. The defendant is out on bond pending argument on the motions. If they are denied he may appeal.

Ross, former U. S. marshal in Texas and former state registrar of vital statistics in California, was a short-hand reporter here for several years. He resigned early this year and had been doing commercial fishing off Newport when he was first indicted.

Local Farm Bureau Men to Attend Meet

The annual western regional conference of the American Farm Bureau federation will attract several Orange county ranchers to Yellowstone National park June 23 to 25, farm bureau officials here said today.

Announcement of the annual conference came from R. D. Flaherty, former executive secretary of the county farm bureau here and present organization director of the western region of the national federation. Flaherty has returned to Santa Ana for a brief visit.

Boy Scouts of Orange County Now Number 1600 Members

The Orange county Boy Scout council now has a membership of 1600 boys, it was announced today in a semi-annual report submitted by Scout Executive Harrison White. Since Jan. 1 of this year nine new troops have been organized and six more are in the process of formation with 160 new members.

A total of 642 merit badges have been passed upon, and 216 new tenderfoot Scouts have been brought into the organization, 42 new Sea Scouts and 178 cub Scouts.

The Scout council now has 46 Scout troops within 1326 members; six Sea Scout units with 114

Gilda Gray, shimmy girl of "chips-hips hooray" fame, today in Los Angeles divorced her husband, Hector de Bricon. She described Hector as a member of the Venezuelan cabinet and said she met him in New York when he was with the Venezuelan diplomatic service.

PROBE OF RELIEF, AIM

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Senator King (D., Utah) told the senate today he would ask shortly a congressional investigation of the administration of relief under Harry Hopkins, the works progress administrator.

King made this statement after Senator McCarran (D., Nev.) said "no one dares to ask an investigation of" WPA.

McCarran said that if he controlled relief matters all funds would be spent under Secretary Ickes and the public works administration.

"Then no one would point a public finger of scorn," McCarran said, as he lauded Ickes' administration of WPA.

$113,000 SPENT ON FLOOD RELIEF

A total of $113,000 will have been spent in Orange county by the National Red Cross on flood relief and rehabilitation before the program started last March is completed, Mrs. Katherine Edmonds, area director of the organization's disaster relief committee, predicted today.

Nearly $20,000 of this amount was spent on emergency relief, and the remaining $93,000 is going for repairs on buildings and other similar work and supplies.

A total of 1288 applications have been received within the county since the flood.

Haight Campaigns In Santa Ana

Raymond L. Haight extended his campaign for governorship into Orange county today when he visited Santa Ana.

Former state corporation commissioner and at present a Los Angeles attorney, he is running for Republican, Democratic and Progressive nominations.

Tiny Tots Found Abandoned

Found abandoned in an Albany, N. Y., garden, these two small children were being cared for in an orphanage while authorities sought their parents. They failed to completely satisfy the little boy.

THOMPSON LOSES OUT IN SHAKE-UP

Clerk Discharged in Welfare Changes

Another step in reorganization of the county welfare department was taken today by Director Jack Snow, as Richard Thompson, collector-clerk and senior employee of the property department, was discharged.

Thompson has been on vacation for the past two weeks, and was at the office today for the last time.

Snow gave economy as the reason for Thompson's discharge, saying he would not be replaced. He also announced he would make several transfers within the department, shifting employees from intake divisions to positions where they will handle already-accepted relief cases.

"The flood of applications which followed liberalization of aid laws," Snow said, "has greatly increased. We need fewer employees in the application and intake departments and will transfer some of them to take care of accepted cases. We will have one less employee in the property department, thus effecting a saving in cost of administration."

Thompson is the second property department head to be discharged since Snow was appointed in a supervisory shakeup in January, 1937. William Penn, Santa Ana city councilman, was fired soon after Snow came into office. Other workers in that department at present are Spencer Collins and Walter Bobb, one of whom may be raised in grade from clerk to collector-clerk, although Snow said he had not determined on such a move yet.

Oh Well—Someone Is Always Spoiling The Children's Fun

Playhouses and bonfires are lots of fun for the kiddies, but a lumber yard is a poor place to build them.

That was the complaint of R. A. Emerson, manager of the Santa Ana Lumber yard, Fourth and Artesia streets, as he sought police protection yesterday.

A five-foot fence has been built around the yard, but it isn't enough to keep youngsters out. They've been building sheds and playhouses—and bonfires—shortly before dark every day or so.

PENSION HEAD SUIT AT END

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—A stipulation for formal dismissal of three suits brought by E. J. Margrett seeking more than $450,000 from Dr. F. E. Townsend and his pension publication was filed yesterday in federal court.

The actions were settled for an undisclosed sum yesterday as a jury was about to start hearing evidence in one of them. At that time Milton Sapiro, attorney for Margrett, former California manager of the pension publication, said the suits would not be dismissed until payment was made "as agreed."

Glen S. Wilson, San Francisco Townsend plan leader, said the settlement "called for payment of a sum which took care of attorney's fees in the case, approximately $5000."

Margrett had charged Townsend with publishing derogatory statements about him.

Says Mouthful

Senator Carter Glass (D., Va.), who issued a brief statement on the adjournment of congress, "We should," he said, "have adjourned long ago. The country would have been a lot better off."

RANCHER ASKS SHERIFF AID

A sheriff's escort of his hay truck was requested today by O. Otte, Los Alamitos farmer, after one of his employees assertedly was stopped and threatened by three former ranch workers who had been discharged.

Jack Blevins, an employee of Otte, told officers the three former employees, a man named Fiske and his two sons, had stopped his truck at the Wander Inn in Los Alamitos while he was hauling a load of hay to Los Angeles county yesterday morning. They threatened to "beat up" on him with a wrench, Blevins said, but he talked them out of it.

Otte told deputies he would go to the district attorney's office for a complaint this morning, but no complaint had been issued there by noon.

HEMOPHILIA VICTIM LOW

A new crisis in the condition of Charles Osborne, Placentia hemophilia victim, forced attendants at the county hospital to give him his 11th blood transfusion yesterday.

The youth, who has been near death since he started bleeding after an eye operation three weeks ago, was believed headed for recovery, but had another hemorrhage yesterday morning. Nearly six quarts of fresh blood have been pumped into his veins to replenish the deficient bloodstream.

PRISON SIT STRIKE SPREADS

SAN QUENTIN, (AP)—More than 300 convicts resumed their "folded arms" strike at San Quentin prison today in protest against withdrawal of noon-hour recreational privileges.

Yesterday's sit-down strike at the prison, affecting workers in the barber, tailor and shoe shops, ended in five hours after announcement by Warden Court Smith there would be no punishment.

The strike spread today to the jute mill and machine and carpenter shops. The workers marched to their places in the tailor, shoe, machine and carpenter shops and the jute mill, but refused to work.

There was no disturbance, and prison officials succeeded in persuading workers in all but the tailor and shoe shops to return to their jobs.

Salvation Army Store Here Causes Trouble, Says Major

Complicated controversy over administration of Santa Ana Salvation Army activities by the territorial office in San Francisco has been believed to have simmered down to one point today.

The "point at issue" was declared to be the operation of an industrial store here by the Long Beach industrial department, with proceeds going to the Long Beach and transient relief.

Major John Naton of the local Salvation Army corps said: "In answer to statements that have appeared in the local press, there is not now, or ever has been, any question as to the handling of the local finances of the Salvation Army."

"A strict system of bookkeeping is kept, and two treasurers sign checks in addition to the signature of the local commanding officer."

LOCAL UNION SNUBS CIO

Gas Workers Refuse Parley With Agents

Five CIO union leaders from Los Angeles were refused admission to the Pacific Gas Workers meeting at the Santa Ana Modern Woodmen hall last night. The Lewis' group explained they simply wanted to talk with the gas workers.

Ninety members of the local independent group at once voted unanimously to keep the CIO men out, according to Russell Rowland, recording secretary. Prior to the ballot, however, the CIO men passed out literature at the door of the hall.

The Santa Ana Branch of the Pacific Gas workers is one of ten independent local unions. President John H. Fox explained that the gas workers could gain more benefits and maintain better relations with the company by remaining an independent union.

The CIO has gained a slight headway among several locals in Los Angeles, composed largely of Southern California Gas company employees, Rowland said, but has had no success among Southern Counties Gas company workers. The local announced this morning that an annual election of officers will be held Thursday, May 26. Nominations were made at the meeting last night.

Two Babies Face Friday, Thirteenth, Hazards at Birth

At least two Orange county babies will be branded by a superstition when they grow up. They were born on Friday the 13th.

Both were girls. One was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Stohn, 1640 Newport boulevard, Costa Mesa, the other to Mr. and Mrs. Salvador Rodriguez, El Modena. The two babies were born in Orange county hospital this morning.

'GOLD STAR' MOTHERS FETED

Paying tribute to seven gold star mothers, approximately 100 Legionnaires and their friends attended a dinner-program arranged by Grant L. Kyle, chairman, in the Santa Ana Legion clubhouse last night.

Those especially honored were Mrs. Iona Sharp, Mrs. Sophie Schroeder, Mrs. Vanie Norris, Mrs. Alma Kellogg, Mrs. Metta Cutler, Mrs. Martha Elliott and Mrs. Mary Croal.

Others mothers as guests were Mesdames Mary Fisher, Charles Hoehn, Mary Van Wyk, Lawrence Platt, Margaret Eaton, Anna Gale, Margaret Hill, Hatti Stowe, Nanette Lester, Mary Ann Lykke, Hannah Tucker, Smith Duckett and Mabel Leach.

Mrs. Zara Kyle, accompanied by Virginia Lee Travarro, sang two numbers, "Mother Macree" and "My Mother's Eyes." A radio skit was presented by Mary Katherine Harper, Katherine Iverson, Lacey Harmon, Wilhelmine Schulz, Mrs. Lucy Robinson and Clarence Robinson. The Hughes quartet, which appears on the "Hollywood Hotel" radio program, sang and danced under the direction of Al Romain.

BUDAPEST, (AP)—The cabinet of Premier Koloman Daranyi, confronted by an expanding nazi movement, resigned tonight.

Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, was expected to call on Bela Imredy, minister of economics, to form a government, and announcement of a new cabinet list before tomorrow as predicted.

The cabinet met briefly for a final session, after which Daranyi visited the regent and submitted the resignation, which Horthy accepted.

Previously it was understood Daranyi would recommend Imredy as head of a new, stronger government capable of combating the rise of nazism in Hungary.

Earlier the government's anti-Jewish bill which would restrict Jewish participation in trade, industry and the professions to at most 20 per cent was passed by acclamation in the chamber of deputies.

Approval by the upper house was regarded as assured. Enactment would mean that some 30,000 Jews would lose their jobs in the five-year period allotted for putting the 20 per cent principle into effect.

The bill was criticized during debate on the grounds that Jews, who constitute five per cent of Hungary's population, still would be unjustly favored if permitted to retain 20 per cent of the employment.

Hungary's population in the 1930 census was 8,683,740.

80 CASES OF MEASLES HERE

Eighty current cases of measles, mostly in Garden Grove, Balsa and Santa Ana districts, were reported today by Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer.

Outbreaks of the disease have caused many absences in schools, officials said. Ninety-five cases already have been reported this month, and Dr. Sutherland said he believes approximately 80 still are current.

Cases reported for 1938 so far total 458, 363 of them during January, February, March and April.

SENATE OKEHS NAVAL BILL

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The senate passed and sent to the White House today the administration's billion-dollar naval expansion bill.

The measure, pending in congress since February, authorizes construction of 46 new fighting ships, 26 auxiliaries and 950 airplanes. Funds to carry out the program must be appropriated later.

Separate bills originally were passed by both chambers. A joint committee worked out a compromise carrying authorizations estimated at $1,000,000,000, and this was approved in the house by a 67-to-31 vote Wednesday.

Three new battleships and two 20,000-ton aircraft carriers are provided by the compromise bill. The battleships will be limited to 35,000 tons, unless the President finds that larger vessels are necessary in the interest of national defense.

Reason for Hard Luck Day Told

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Dust off the rabbit's foot, folks, for the calendar shows that Friday the 13th is here again.

The library of congress—which has a staggering amount of information on the subject—says two ladies have had a lot to do with the belief that the day is unlucky. They are: The Goddess Freya.

Mrs. Isaac Harvey of Wilmington, Del.

Legend has it that Freya picked Friday as her festive day and believed everybody should sit around and think about her. She put the evil eye on those who didn't.

Mrs. Harvey helped the superstition along in early America. She had dreams. Her husband Isaac laid the keel of a brig on Friday. She told him it was unlucky, but he even named the ship Friday and launched her on Friday the 13th.

Two Fridays later the vessel sank, and everybody in colonial America, except Isaac, nodded and said Friday the 13th was really unlucky.

Isaac was lucky, however—he didn't go with the boat.

China Gets Arms Buying Agreement With 2 Powers

GENEVA. (AP)—Chinese sources said today that China had obtained from league powers, particularly Britain and France, an agreement for credits for purchase of arms and also assurance of aid in getting the arms into China.

Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, China's suave delegate to the League of Nations council, was said to have obtained the agreement in behind the scenes negotiations.

Details were not announced to the council and arrangements concerning safe delivery of the arms in China—for use in the war against Japan—were said to be secret.

Dr. Koo was understood to have rejected earlier offers of credits and insisted on receiving also pledges that the powers would see that the munitions purchased reached Chinese territory safely through Britain's Hongkong or France's Indo-China.

After a private session of the council delegates said they had agreed to a resolution giving Switzerland integral neutrality within the league.

ARMS EMBARGO TABLED BY COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The senate foreign relations committee voted, 17 to 1, today to table the embargo on United States' shipment of arms of the Spanish government. It acted after Secretary Hull opposed action at this time.

Chairman Pittman (D., Nev.) of the foreign relations committee said the committee's action meant action on the Nye resolution had been "postponed indefinitely." This usually is tantamount to killing a resolution.

It was not immediately disclosed which member of the foreign relations group had voted against delaying action.

Pittman said he had arranged to permit Senator Nye (R., N. D.), who now is out of the city, to appear before the committee next week to make any statement he wishes on behalf of the resolution.

The Nevada senator asserted, however, it was highly unlikely that the committee would reconsider its action.

Shirley Temple, according to report, will have $2,500,000 in the bank in her own name when she grows up, which will make her an attractive matrimonial prospect.

If, as reported, the government has lost over $2,000,000 as a result of taking over more than 80,000 homes from the H. O. L. C., it would seem that one place to reduce the expense of government would be to let private interests do the building and the financing. So far I haven't even got a home out of it. I did get a federal farm loan once, paid it back, glad of it, and if oranges are in demand maybe I can make enough money over a period of years to pay the private party from whom I borrowed the money to pay the government. I don't know much about borrowing from Peter to pay Paul. I'm not concerned so much about names. Its amounts which crawl around my bed at nights. However, they leave during the day time.

Straw hat season will officially open at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning with a parade through the business district with 50 of Santa Ana Junior college's most charming girls participating.

The long serpentine will begin in front of the Junior college building on North Main street and wind its way south to the heart of the shopping area. The girls, attired in bright spring sports togs and straw hats, will ride in 30 automobiles, according to Walter Swanberger, committee chairman.

Moon Will Put on Its Act for Late Wanderers Tonight

Amusement hint for tonight: See the second show and watch the moon disappear on your way home.

Night owls will see a total eclipse by 12:18 a. m. Saturday—and even those who have early bedtimes can see some phases of the eclipse.

What will be happening is this: The earth will come directly between the sun and moon. Ordinarily the moon escapes the long tapering shadow of the earth at full moon, but tonight at 9:44 the shadow will reach the moon's edge.

At 10:57 the moon will enter

ARREST SOLVES BURGLARIES OF TWO YEARS AGO

Reports of a series of 15 Santa Ana burglaries that occurred two years ago were dragged out of police files today as the cases finally were cleared with the arrest of George Milovich, 19, of Kramer in Kern county.

Milovich reportedly admitted committing the burglaries with another youth who since has been sent to the state reformatory. He was arrested at the Kramer Borax mills and jailed in Mojave to await the arrival of Santa Ana officers.

Police arraigned Milovich before Justice of the Peace Kenneth E. Morrison, who certified him to the juvenile court yesterday, since the boy was only 17 years of age when the burglaries were committed in May, 1936.

LOYOLA BAND TO ENTERTAIN AT BARBECUE

Musical numbers by the 70-piece Loyola university swing band and band (cq) will feature the program of the annual old-fashioned barbecue and picnic planned by the Disaster Relief Commission of the Orange County American Legion May 29 in Sycamore Grove campground in Santa Ana canyon, Roy E. Black, member of the commission, said today.

The barbecue and picnic is being staged as a benefit for the disaster relief workers, who aided in emergency work during the March flood, and for expenses in connection with the annual Armistice Day parade.

Judge Frank Drumm of Santa Ana will act as master of ceremonies for the program, which will follow a barbecue dinner in charge of Tony Barrios and Willis Duffy of Santa Ana. Legionnaires today urged early purchase of tickets, which may be obtained at any Legion post or at 303 North Sycamore street, Santa Ana.

Insurance Adds to Wealth, Says Neff

Life insurance has at least eight advantages to the policyholder and his family, in the opinion of Paul W. Neff, vice president of the Orange County Life Underwriters association.

"A policy gives the owner a sense of security and to that extent eliminates worry, increases initiative, and thereby speeds the production of wealth, because the policyholder becomes more efficient in his daily tasks," according to Neff.

Neff believes that life insurance is one of the safest investments available, because "laws do not permit life insurance companies to gamble or speculate with the funds received from policyholders."

Good Will Day Program Planned

International Good Will day will be observed in the Orange Woman's clubhouse starting at noon tomorrow, when a program will be presented by students from various county schools, to be featured by a play presented by children from the intermediate school in Orange.

The Rev. D. Howard Dow of Anaheim will pronounce the invocation, the Brea school band will present numbers and dances, plays, Junior Red Cross reports will feature the remainder of the program. Also to be featured will be an international correspondence exhibit in charge of Fullerton schools.

OFFICERS PLAN PARTY FOR TOROSAS

At a special party-meeting of Torosa Rebekah lodge this week Mrs. Minnie Squire was nominated for the office of noble grand for the coming year. Also named to feature in next month's election were Alice Tolhurst, vice grand; Ada Spencer, secretary; Leota Allen and Blanche Chandler, financial secretaries, and Ethel Brown, treasurer.

Mary Ann Knox, outgoing noble grand, and Mrs. Squire, present vice grand, joined as hostesses at the social part of the meeting, arranging a table beautiful with flowers from the gardens of the latter, of Mrs. Edward Cochems, and of Mrs. Anna Scott. Individual bouquets were presented each officer and dainty corsages augmented by Mother's day cards in which were placed pretty handkerchiefs, lay at the place of each Torosa mother. Mrs. Knox had arranged for a handsome cake that also paid honor to the mothers in the organization, and this, surrounded by Cecil Bruner buds, centered the table. It was voted to henceforth have an annual Mother's day party.

Of great interest was judging of the beauty of box lunches brought by each member, and a trio of judges, Edward Cochems, Victor Peterson, and Dr. J. Drake, awarded prizes to Alice Tolhurst, Emma Cochems and Anna Scott. Musical numbers, including vocal solos by Miss Beulah Parker, accompanied by Miss Mildred Marchant, and ventriloquist selections by J. G. Johnson were enjoyed during the affair, attended by 70 members and guests.

Blower of Brea.

CLUB ENJOYS PARTY AT LAKE ELSINORE

Departure of Mrs. A. F. LeGaye for Elsinore to make her home some time ago left a gap in the ranks of El Paso Tiempo club which has since been pleasantly filled, but this week the membership enjoyed a reunion with the formerly prominent local matron in her lakeside home.

Mrs. LeGaye and Mrs. Edward Best were co-hostesses at a large luncheon party, with guests from Laguna, Riverside and Los Angeles, in addition to eight Santa Anans. First and second prizes went to two of the latter group, Mrs. Charles Borchard and Mrs. Harold W. Low.

AUXILIARY OF UNION MEETS

Ladies' auxiliary of the Carpenters' union met Tuesday evening in the Labor temple with all officers and a large attendance present for the business meeting. The ladies went to Storrs for refreshments following the meeting.

Next social meeting of the group will be May 20 at which time the ladies will entertain their husbands at penoche at the home of Mrs. Frank Bowland, 1108 Kilson drive. Mrs. Ed Crabtree will be co-hostess for the event.

HUGHES ARE DINNER HOSTS

Thirteen years of married life were celebrated Wednesday by Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Hughes in their home at 1317 West Walnut street.

A table lovely with pale green and yellow flowers and lighted yellow tapers was set for a formal dinner enjoyed by two guest couples, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gish, with the hosts.

"The Sooner You Plan Your Future the Better Your Future Will Be"

MARY STODDARD

Motherhood Is Magic State Only as Women Make It Such

Sometimes when a fine young man or woman writes me for advice or my viewpoint, I feel like turning the tables and advising their parents instead. Such a letter from a capable, fair young woman is in the morning mail.

Because Mother's Day has just passed and because this girl's letter illustrates so clearly a point I've wanted to make for a long while, I'm going to say it right now.

Mother's day is a sentimental gesture that probably does as much harm as good. The good is, of course, evident. The day prods inarticulate and lazy daughters and sons, as well as those who show their love at other times, into sending Mother a telegram, bringing her an armful of flowers, or a box of sweets. Certainly, even a misguided parent deserves that much attention once a year.

The harm comes in all the sentimental words spoken and printed about mothers. They keep alive the old superstition that motherhood is a magic state. And that once a woman becomes a mother she takes on all the virtues, and from then on "knows best" about everything. In reality, any thinking person knows that a woman takes into motherhood only traits of character she had before. A selfish woman becomes a selfish mother. One who, perhaps, spoils her child for her own pleasure or attempts to live her life through the child's.

A cruel woman becomes a cruel mother. An arrogant woman makes showoffs of her children. And a "do-less" woman lets her children grow up as best they can. Motherhood doesn't often change women. It only gives them a chance to show what kind of people they are.

Miss Twenty-Four's problem is that her mother does not like the young man she is now engaged to, although in all respects he seems to be a fine person. This Miss "Twenty-Four" is another "only child," is going through a trying situation. She should and must be allowed to live her own life and seek her own happiness in the natural, customary way.

Why not do as I suggested and show your mother this column, Miss "Twenty-Four"? On occasion, I have known of persons changing almost overnight when they were given an opportunity to see themselves as others see them.

What you must do is to assert your rightful heritage as an individual as calmly as possible. Teach her that you are a grown woman and that she is acting childish.

—MARY STODDARD.

3 Distinct Types Of Radio 'Fadeouts' Linked to Sun Rays

By Science Service

WASHINGTON.—Three distinct types of disturbance in the ionosphere with which radio fadeouts are linked or connected with excessive ultraviolet radiation from the sun and with magnetic storms on the earth in a report presented here by National Bureau of Standards scientists.

Sudden disturbances of the ionosphere, layer of ionized air far above the earth's surface which reflects radio waves and bends them around the curved earth, are marked by short, abrupt fadeouts of radio waves and frequently also by perturbations of terrestrial magnetism and earth currents, J. H. Dellinger, S. S. Kirby, T. R. Gilliland and N. Smith declare. They are linked with short bursts of ultraviolet radiation from eruptions on the sun.

A second type of ionosphere disturbance, marked by gradual radio fadeouts lasting several hours at a time, was connected in the report with a non-eruptive type of ultraviolet radiation from the sun. Ionosphere storms consist of turbulence of the upper ionosphere and are usually associated with magnetic storms, the scientists reported.

Actress Seeks Work, Not Love

HOLLYWOOD, (AP) — Merle Oberon is back in Hollywood — "Here to work, not to fall in love."

After 18 months in England, the dark-eyed actress returned for a film assignment. David Niven, formerly her constant escort, was not at the station to meet her.

Miss Oberon expressed interest in a London report that an English court found her own chauffeur "owes" her $25,000 as a result of an accident in which she was injured. She had sued occupants of the other car involved.

MILE-A-MINUTE INSECT RECORD

(Science Service)

WASHINGTON.—A mile a minute is the fastest an insect has ever been observed to fly over a measured course. This was done by an Australian dragonfly, whose speed over a distance of between 80 and 90 yards was clocked at three seconds, by the well-known New Zealand entomologist, Dr. R. J. Tillyard.

Other scientists, using various methods, have determined the speeds of flying insects belonging to various orders at from 18 to 33 miles an hour.

A review of these authentically measured insect speeds is given in the current issue of Science by Dr. H. E. Ewing, U. S. National Museum entomologist, in commenting on the claimed speed of over 800 miles an hour by a Mexican deer botfly, which was recently exploded in the same journal by an engineer, Dr. Irving Langmuir, of the General Electric company's research laboratories.

CALIFORNIANS DOING THINGS IN WASHINGTON

By HERBERT A. YOCOM
(AP California Correspondent)

WASHINGTON.—Senator William Gibbs McAdoo will carry into his campaign for re-election a record of almost 100 per cent support of the New Deal program of President Roosevelt.

So far as administration supporters go, he has been a regular among the regulars throughout most of the six years he has served in the senate, voting the New Deal ticket almost invariably. That does not mean, of course, that he has not strayed from the reservation occasionally.

The senator, for instance, voted twice for immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus and followed up each time with a vote to override the President's veto. Again last year he voted to override a veto of the act authorizing a one-year extension of the low interest rates on federal land bank loans to farmers, while in the current session he opposed enactment of the new farm act.

Otherwise he has been for the President's program practically in its entirety.

Bearing this out have been his votes for the emergency banking act, original farm relief act, establishment of T. V., NRA and AAA; for the monetary gold act of 1934; for both the original and second Guffey coal acts; the Wagner act creating the national labor relations board; the public utility holding company "death sentence" act; for the administration's various neutrality proposals; against the McCarran "prevailing wage" amendment to the $4,880,000,000 relief appropriation act of 1935, which he supported; for the soil conservation act and for the wage-hour bill which later died in the house.

In addition, he defended the President's supreme court bill as a "mild proposal" and voted for the executive reorganization bill assigned recently to a committee pigeonhole by the house.

Proponents of the "general welfare act" version of the Townsend old-age pension plan now concede that they haven't the slightest chance of obtaining favorable consideration at the current session of congress.

Representative Crosby (D., Pa.), whose name the substitute bill bears, admitted as much this week and placed the blame on the house ways and means committee. "We're stymied," he said, "behind that adamant eight-ball of the house, the ways and means committee, which refuses to hold a hearing on pension legislation. Something must be done, but we won't have a chance, now, until the 76th congress meets next January."

The Pennsylvanian said he would introduce next session a bill proposing a 2 per cent gross income tax to raise funds to be distributed to persons past 60 in monthly amounts to be determined by the amount of the tax yield. There will be no provision, he said, to require recipients to spend the pension the same month they get it.

Crosby believes, incidentally, that if all the proponents of various pension bills, including his own, could unite behind one plan they would have sufficient votes to force it through the house.

He claims a total of 197 votes for some form of old age pension or others, but it may be worthwhile in this connection to note that the petition originated by Representative Sheppard (D., Calif.), to discharge the ways and means committee from consideration of the "general welfare act" has received only 116 signatures to date.

To take the bill from a committee requires 218 signatures under the rules of the house.

Five California Democrats read with particular satisfaction President Roosevelt's letter to Majority Leader Rayburn declaring that votes against the reorganization bill offered no occasion for re-consideration.

They were Representatives Buck, Costello, Lea, Elliott, and McGroarty, all of whom voted to recommit the bill to committee.

Negress Too Large for Trip to Court, So Judge Sends Message of Fine and Jail Term

PROBLEM

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—Mrs. Emma McAdoo, Negro, was ordered into the state excise officers' automobile for a trip to jail on charges of illegal possession of liquor.

"I can't get in," she protested. She was right—she weighs 450 pounds. So she didn't have to go to jail. Later she was fined $100 and given a suspended 30-day sentence.

SCHOOL DAZE

OAKLAND, Md.—Because it was a perfect day for a picnic, 62 Oakland High school students called a classroom strike and adjourned to the picnic grounds.

It took them two days to get back in school. Principal F. D. Bittle refused to let them return without their parents. Only five parents came.

After another class-less day, he agreed to let the students back—on their promise there would be no more strikes.

DANGEROUS DOORS

DENVER.—A stranger stepped into a revolving door with 75-year-old Frank Chancey. When he emerged, Chancey reported to police, $177 he had been carrying had disappeared. So had the stranger.

Florida Drought Damages Citrus Crops Severely

WASHINGTON.—A spring drought is causing difficulties to agriculture in the East as well as in the West just at present, the U. S. weather bureau reports. Topsoil in the Ohio valley and elsewhere east of the Mississippi is dry and hard, and a good rain is needed before corn planting can proceed.

The drought in Florida is doing severe damage to citrus groves. In the Southwest, chronic drought still grips the Dust Bowl area, and two bad dust storms have been reported during the past week.

TAX DELINQUENTS

Records of the state controller's office listed a total of nearly 300,000 tax delinquent, tax deeded properties which still are subject to redemption by their original owners.

NEW FERTILIZER IS SYNTHETIC

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va.—A synthetic fertilizer, carrying a higher concentration of available phosphorus (65 per cent) than any other fertilizer, will be produced on a scale of 50,000 tons a year by the Tennessee Valley Authority, it is announced at the opening sessions of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers here today.

Dr. Harry A. Curtis, chief chemical engineer of T. V. A., described how the concentrated fertilizer, known as calcium metaphosphate, means a substantial saving for the farmer.

While its cost at the point of manufacture is higher, Dr. Curtis indicated, the important and often overlooked point is that the cost of the fertilizer on the farm—per ton of phosphorus pentoxide available for plant use—is less due to lower freight charges.

Harbor Strike Parley Slated

SAN PEDRO, (AP)—Longshoremen and employers will act May 19 on a proposal for settlement of a dispute concerning the use of liftboards in certain cargo handling operations.

A basis for a settlement was reached yesterday by workers and employers' representatives. The argument tied up the harbor for several days earlier this spring. The proposal provides that liftboards be used as they were before the dispute.

The philosopher Kant defined the devil as the personification of "radical evil."

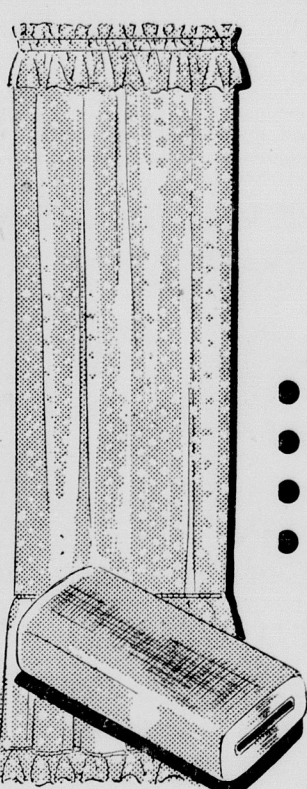

France Lowers Discount Rate

PARIS, (AP)—The Bank of France today lowered its discount rate from 3 to 2½ per cent.

The move was in conformity with the Daladier government's money policy.

Heavy repatriation of French money following the May 5 devaluation of the franc, estimated at nearly 30,000,000,000 francs (about $840,000,000), also made the lower rate possible.

At the same time the bank lowered its rates for loans on securities from 4 to 3½ per cent and on 30-day loans from 3 to 2½ per cent.

I Just Found Out Why Dynamite Explodes

—By—
MILLARD BROWNE

Would you break into a sweat if someone suddenly tossed a stick of dynamite for you to catch? And would you remain reasonably calm if you saw Junior toying with a harmless-looking dynamite cap? You probably would, if you're an untutored layman, because chances are you don't know a dynamite cap when you see one.

But you'd have guessed wrong both times. Because you could drop a stick of dynamite from the top of the First National bank building and it probably wouldn't explode, but if you scratched the inside of a dynamite cap with a needle, it might blow your hand off.

It takes pressure equal to a 75-pound blow with a sledge hammer to set off one of the stumping dynamite sticks used commercially around here; dynamite caps provide 100 pounds pressure to the square inch, which is enough to put out an eye or blow off two or three fingers.

There have been quite a number of local near-tragedies because youngsters (and a few adults, too) didn't know about dynamite caps. Most seriously injured was a radio technician who saw a cap in a drawer, thought it was just a piece of copper and thought it would make a fine radio connection. He put it against a grindstone, and when it blew up he got some copper shivers in his eyes.

One man had heard about dynamite caps but didn't believe what he'd heard. So he laid one on an anvil, smashed it with a hammer. It blew a hole in the side of his nose.

In case you've never seen one, here's what a cap looks like: It's copper-colored, an inch and a half long, one-fourth inch in diameter, open at one end. The treacherous white material inside is fulminate of mercury, which blows up with the scratch of a needle, a pinch with a pair of pliers, a slight blow with a hammer, the flame of a match, or even by just being thrown on the floor.

Law says dynamite caps always must be properly marked, even if they're laid away in a private drawer. Even a trespasser might have a comeback if he were injured by a cap that wasn't labeled.

Dynamite itself—the kind used by ranchers—is 20 per cent nitroglycerine, the rest sawdust. Farmers' dynamite comes in eight-inch sticks an inch and a quarter in diameter, though it's put up in sticks all the way from seven-eighths inch to three inches in diameter for different purposes.

Most frequent use for dynamite in Orange county is to blow stumps out of land that's to be cleared for cultivation, or to loosen up the soil where a new tree is to be planted. Average charge is one or one-half stick for this kind of work.

Only dynamite dealer in town is Hawley's sporting goods store, who needs special city, county and federal permits to sell dynamite. The store has been handling it since 1888. Each stick sold must be reported to agencies of all three governments, with full particulars about who bought it, where and how he intends to use it.

Dynamite itself is somewhat tricky where fire is concerned. Ordinarily it will burn like a candle, but once in a while it'll blow up under heat. A truck load of dynamite in Santiago canyon some time ago caught fire. It all burned up and there wasn't a sign of an explosion.

Dynamite caps are different, though. They'll always go off under heat; a fuse in fact is used to ignite them. They're imbedded in the end of a stick of dynamite, and it's pressure from them that causes the nitroglycerine to explode.

Dynamite isn't all as easy to handle as the ranchers' 20 per cent variety. It also is put up with 40 and 60 per cent nitroglycerine, and that naturally goes off much more rapidly. Oil workers handle "soup," which is nearly pure nitroglycerine, must be stored in rubber-lined vats.

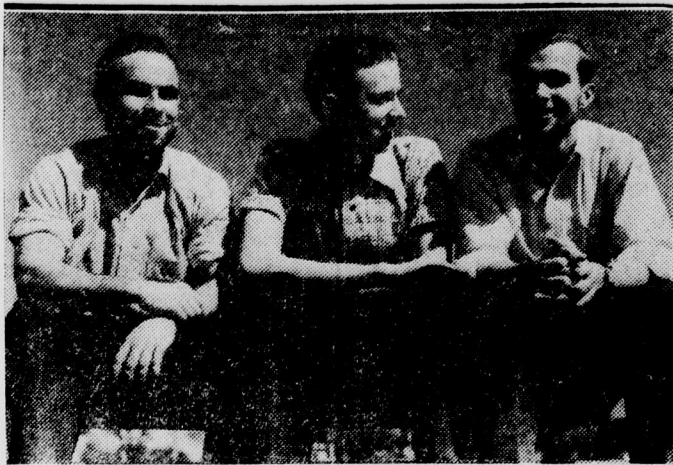

Oil companies and miners, heavier users of dynamite than the ranchers, often buy their supplies in carload lots direct from the wholesalers. Hawley supplies mostly small ranchers and small miners, makes it a point to carry a relatively small stock, because of the hazard and the fact that idle sticks tend to disintegrate by absorbing water.

Avocado Growers Field Day, May 24

The annual avocado growers field day for Orange county growers will be held on the afternoon of May 24, according to Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg. Following up the suggestions of the avocado department of the farm bureau, the tour this year will be in a neighboring county. Cooperation of Farm Advisor M. B. Rounds of Los Angeles county is making possible an interesting tour of orchard stops in the Whit-Tier and La Habra Heights districts in that county.

Cars will assemble at the corner of 101 boulevard and Hacienda road, north of La Habra at 1 o'clock. All avocado growers are invited to attend. Pruning, irrigation, fertilizer practice and varieties will be featured.

Coeds Make Emphatic Retort To Charge of Mate-Hunting

By DELPHA WOLLETT

Coeds at Santa Ana Junior college emphatically do not attend school to find prospective husbands!

Allowing the young women in question to speak for themselves, it was learned in a survey of 54 graduating sophomores with definite ambitions that husbands were not in order, anyway from jay-see.

"There's no one here worth looking for," one popular coed exclaimed. As for finding prospective husbands, just scanning the campus and viewing the display of choice bewhiskered specimens available at present gives the girls good reason to say, "excuse me hurriedly, please?"

Majoring in education is the main reason why coeds go to college. Fifteen women intend to take this course alone upon entering colleges in the fall.

Training for careers is very apparent. Individual women have selected the following vocations: journalism, economics, bacteriology, chemistry, commerce, physical education, biology, office work, laboratory, technician, drama, home economics, mathematics, history and medicine.

This proves that girls come to jaysee for a definite purpose, not because they have nothing else to do or because fond parents won't have them "loafing" around the

Bigger Bread Loaf May Help Farmers

To increase bread consumption Kansas bakers have decided the big, fat loaf must be made more popular, a report says.

When people cut a slice they will eat it even if it is twice as large as one from the present long, lean loaf they explained. "This will help wheat farmers," the bakers said, "because it takes more wheat to make the big, fat loaf."

house, as one of the fellows so bluntly put it.

Indeed fashion minded lassies come to junior college, but not expressly to show off their clothes. In fact, coeds must consider fashion, because learning to be well-groomed is part of any girl's career.

GAINES

Due to conditions beyond my control (that's a swell excuse, isn't it?) this here now thing is going to be shorter than usual today. Which will probably be greeted as a blessing by most.

However, I can't let the day slip by without disclosing my new-gained knowledge that fairy tales really are true. I've never thought so, before, but now I've been converted.

The other evening the youngest member of the editorial tribe was visiting Frank Fiske's daughter, Sally.

They'd played Indian and policeman and all those other things kids play until they were tired and seeking a new method of passing the time.

Finally they decided upon a bird hunt.

So they roared into the house, asking for some salt to aid in the bird-catching expedition.

Parents looked knowingly at each other, and with various and assorted winks, procured the salt and the youngsters left in search of wild game. Then the oldest broke out into hearty, if impolite giggles.

They were, to say the least, as tounded a few minutes later when the two young hunters returned with a perfectly healthy bird!

They'd captured the critter—I guess by using salt—and now I know they'll continue believing in Santa Claus and such people for a long time!

Me, too.

You and you and you should go to Newport's Harbor Day celebration Saturday.

Not only because you'll get a fine feed at the yacht club, but because you'll hear a fine talk by a good engineer.

Major Theodore Wyman, jr., was in charge of the U. S. army's development of the harbor. He knows all about what went on during the time they were making a real paradise for yachtsmen out of the sand-infested bay. And he probably knows future plans of the government for any future development. Although he might not testify as to that!

After the luncheon and speeches, everyone'll make a tour of the bay and find out what makes the wild waves tame.

It won't be such a whoop-and-holler celebration as they had last year, but will keep alive remembrance of the day the harbor was officially opened after the

HUGE WATER LINE PROJECT ENDS AT PARK

BUENA PARK.—More than two miles of new water main have been placed in the Buena Park district by the Orange County Water District within the past few months. Most of the lines have been on the Calloway tract and Fourth street areas.

This has been laid at a cost of $6000 to the district and $10,300 by the WPA. In all, 7250 feet of four-inch cast iron, and 3000 feet of six-inch pipe have been installed, with 50 house and five hydrant connections.

In addition, a sanitary district project has been completed under a WPA project, with laying of 1600 feet of pipe on Western avenue, between 9th and Orange-norpe, circumventing the quickened areas. Thirty men have been employed in the work under Duke Hunt, engineer, and Claud Allin, superintendent.

Mrs. Helen Louise Edwards, grand conductress of the state of California, whose home is in Fullerton, was escorted to the east as were Mrs. Jennie Shippe, Santa Ana, deputy grand matron, and the following matrons and patrons, Nettie Negley, Brea; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bryan, Garden Grove; Mrs. Helen Lurker, Hermosa, Santa Ana; Mrs. Sue Henry and Forrest White, Santa Ana chapter; Mrs. Gail Langenbeck and Oscar Wright, Huntington Beach; Mrs. Florence Farnum, Norwalk; Mrs. Hermine Lowe and Emil Roddeck, Yorba Linda, and Mrs. Belle Kuchney, Laguna Beach. A total of 37 past matrons and patrons also were escorted and introduced.

A program was introduced by Mrs. Lee consisting of piano accompaniment solos by Joseph Dykzeul, age seven, of Gardena, who played and sang four numbers, William Marsters sang two groups of solos, accompanied by Miss Eliza Mae Hoxie, both from the music department of Santa Ana junior college. Helen Pifer of Anaheim gave two humorous readings.

The writer has in his possession the April 29 issue of the Elmir Heights, N. Y. "Heights Bulletin" from which he has gleaned the following: "Townsend clubs in 37th congressional district will meet in Elmira, Sunday, May 1, for their regular monthly convocation. Delegations representing every club in the district are expected to journey to Elmira. Speakers prominent in the Townsend movement will be heard."

"Preparations are being made to serve a picnic lunch to more than a thousand people who are expected to be present. The expectation is based on the fact that far more than a thousand were served at the last month's district meeting which was held at Canisteo, N. Y."

Another Townsend item in the same paper says: "Over 60 couples attended the dance sponsored by the Heights Townsend club in St. John's Parish hall. The Green Mountain Ramblers furnished the music."

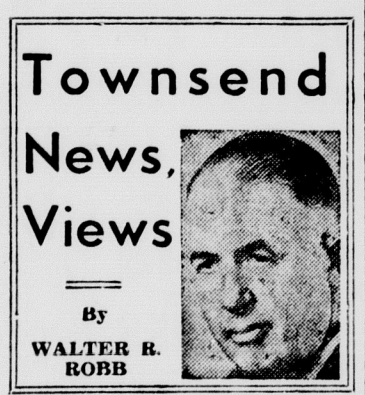

In the editorial column of the paper appeared the following: "(Editor's note—This week the Bulletin presents as guest editorialist, E. C. Slater, president of the Elmir Townsend club, No. 1, who herewith outlines how the 2 per cent transaction tax provided for in the Townsend bill, HR 4199 will work in a practical manner toward the Utopian goal of poverty abolition.)"

"Since everybody making a living has to sell something—his time, or goods—everybody should be compelled to do his or her share in maintaining the market in which he sells his wares or services. The Townsend plan imbedded in the general welfare bill HR 4199 now before the ways and means committee of congress, proposes that everybody shall pay a gross tax of 2 per cent on whatever he sells every 30 days. To wipe out all forms of public charity, such as community chests, poor farms, doles, WPA, etc., to promote the general welfare with this tax money which we demand shall be collected by the federal government and distributed back into the channels of trade by a system of federal annuities paid to the aged citizens above the age of 60—the tax money to be pro-rated to retired citizens."

This column thinks that the above editorial and Townsend news items from New York state indicate quite well how thoroughly the Townsend philosophy is penetrating the thought of the nation.

SOL GONZALEZ CELEBRATES WITH FIESTA

Sol Gonzalez today launched a three-day "Gala Fiesta" to celebrate his first anniversary as proprietorship of "La Hacienda" and his 25th year of residence in Santa Ana. Hilarity and friendship, dancing and song, good food and drink, will commemorate the day a year ago when, after 25 years of steady progress as a merchant here he launched an entirely new and unfamiliar venture, that of restaurant ownership.

Gonzalez, a wiry, aggressive, smiling Spanish-American, is a perfect example of the self-made, successful business man. Starting at $9 per week as a drygoods store clerk, he fought his way inch by inch until, in 1937, he owned his own thriving business, his own building, his own home, was married, and had two sons.

He disposed of his drygoods store and embarked on a new career which had long intrigued him with its possibilities.

La Hacienda was built on East Fifth street and Gonzalez became a restaurant proprietor with only his own credo of good food as a background.

One cook, two cooks, three cooks were fired. Finally, despairing of finding anyone to compare with his slender dark-eyed wife, he begged her to take over the kitchen and herself prepare the enchiladas, the tortillas, the tacos and frijoles that were his goal.

The experiment worked so well that soon other members of the family, the nieces Carlotta Mirabel and Adelina Gamboa, were installed as waitresses. A brother-in-law, Daniel Garcia, is right-hand man behind the bar. Flora Chavez, a cousin, and Florita Garcia, Gonzalez' sister, help out at various times, and over all preside Senora Isabel Lucero, stately sister of the proprietor.

"We all work for ourselves, for our own business," Gonzalez shrugs proudly. "My nieces—they aren't hired help, but shareholders."

The fiesta at La Hacienda, in which a true Mexican atmosphere is carried out in every detail, will continue through Sunday evening.

WHAT'S WHAT 'BOUT TRAFFIC

By H. C. MEEHAN
Captain, Orange County Unit
California Highway Patrol

What do the double white lines in the center of the highway indicate? Is it a violation to cross over the double white lines? We are often asked those questions.

The double lines confuse a great many motorists. Many have been told it is a violation, regardless of circumstances, to cross over the double white line. While this might be a very wise law, it is not the case at the present time.

The only time that you violate the law in crossing over the double line is where you are attempting to pass another car where your view is obstructed, on the brow of a hill, at a blind curve, or some similar location.

In other words, crossing over the line is not a violation in itself, since the line acts as a warning signal only, either to designate

Geographer Claims Colonies Prove Of Little Value

LONDON.—Colonies are not a paying proposition, only an expensive luxury affording prestige, in the opinion of Dr. C. B. Fawcett, professor of economic and regional geography at the University of London.

Their chief value is in upholding the national self-esteem, Prof. Fawcett states in an article in the current issue of Geographical Review, printed here.

Although Great Britain has the most far-flung empire, it is necessary to import wheat for the homeland's bread, he points out. British colonies supply only semi-luxuries in foodstuffs—tea, cocoa and cane sugar, Prof. Fawcett declares. More money has been sunk in unprofitable business ventures in the colonies than has been made from them, he asserts, and adds that the British taxpayer has to foot the bills for administrative costs.

The idea that colonies are the solution to overpopulation at home is fallacious, according to the geographer, because most colonial lands are in the tropics and white men have little desire to go there.

The aqueducts of Rome at the time of the Caesars supplied 320 million gallons of water daily and were 249 miles long.

The center line of the highway or to warn you, with reference to passing on blind curves or at the brow of a hill, that you are in dangerous territory and to proceed with caution.

We see signs at the bottom of grades stating, "It is a violation to pass over the double line." In explanation, it would still be a violation to pass another vehicle on that grade, even though the double line were not there, due to the fact that your vision is obscured and you are not able to see over the crest of the grade.

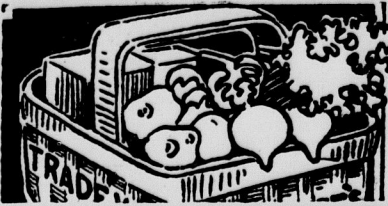

Great care should be taken in overtaking and passing vehicles on heavily-traveled highways. Many motorists will drive up behind a line of traffic and, without determining whether or not they have space in which to pass, will cut out and around the line they have been following, and many times the oncoming traffic is such that they do not have room to get back in line. Wrecks frequently occur as a result of this violation.

Either the oncoming car will be run off the highway, sometimes into a ditch or tree, or the one being passed will be cut in on, forcing that car off on the other side of the highway. This is what we term a "cutting-in violation" and is one of the most dangerous types of violation.

Five persons were killed recently in this county as a result of improper passing. Car A, driving west, came up behind a slow-moving truck; without ascertaining whether or not the highway was clear of oncoming traffic, Car A pulled around the truck.

Vehicle B, another truck, going east, was met head-on by Car A. Five persons were burned in the resulting fire; three died at the scene of the wreck and the other two in the hospital. That's the price that was paid as a result of improper passing.

"Be sure you are right, then go ahead."

Introducing Mr. George H. Boardman

Managing a large property the size of the Grand Central Block, never leaves a dull moment in the life of George Boardman, better known to his many friends as "Jack."

Boardman is the overseer, lease agent, and general building superintendent of the Grand Central Market. The business block is owned by the Santa Ana Development company.

Jack came here eight years ago from the Frisco section of California, where he gained valuable experience in the merchandising field, in the San Francisco and Oakland department stores. Boardman is a native son of California, was born and raised in the Sacramento valley.

He now lives at 1421 N. Flower in Santa Ana with his wife and two daughters.

Just for the sake of tantalizing your appetite, stroll past the Eaton Bakery cases and I'll put in with you if you aren't tempted to stop and buy.

And if it's bread you buy, here's an idea... (no charge) . . . waltz down the aisle to the west a bit, keep sandwiches in mind till you come to Morrison's Dairy Store, and I loose if you don't make another purchase, in the form of a nice little (or Big) slab of cheese.

Of course cheese may be off your list today . . . maybe . . . but you're still on the way to a dandy sandwich if you keep on to the west, 'cause the meat display and tempting array of Ham is gonna get you at the Broadway Meat Market if the Cheese didn't . . . That Flavorite Ham has really got what it takes.

You know what puts the formal gown on ham, surrounded by good bread . . . yer right the first time, there's nothing to a good sandwich without that tasty touch of lettuce especially if it's as crisp and fresh as the kind on sale at the Broadway Produce, just across the aisle from the Broadway Meat.

And did you ever hear of a sandwich as fancy as we have without that last layer, you know the touch it takes . . . Right again . . . you can't get by without mayonnaise or salad dressing of some kind. As they politely take your purchases to your car (parked on the big Grand Central Parking lot on First street), cross the aisle to the south at Wayne's Grocery and if you don't get service with a great big smile either Wayne has broken his leg or else . . . anyhow the salad dressing is there in quantity and quality.

There's no sense in going home right now . . . too early . . . that sandwich will wait . . . step out of Wayne's and cruise to the east on the same aisle . . . I know you'd see it . . . those nice comfortable chairs are where you get your shoes shined at Bill's Shine Place . . . nice place to sit and rest while somebody does the work right.

One thing sure does lead to another, doesn't it? I wouldn't be at all surprised if Bill gets a cut on this kind of a deal . . . everybody knows you can't help but see the people (from Bill's Chairs), in Charley's Cafe enjoying their afternoon coffee and . . . or maybe some poor soul was probably tempted by the savory odor out of Charley's Kitchen and ordered one of those dainty lunch specials . . . he'll come back again I'll bet . . . anyhow you're a certain sure sucker for Charley's hospitality.

That refreshing snack at Charley's put the old pepper back into your step . . . or am I wrong . . . ? Sat there a long time . . . or didn't you notice? There's one thing about a broken watch . . . you don't honestly know whether you overstayed your time limit or not, so you're innocent . . . but did you ever hear of the guy who lost a million bucks 'cause his ticker was out of gear . . . ? Why take a chance on losing your million, just step across the aisle from Charley's door to Garrett's Jewelry store. Mr. Garrett is a watch doctor with years of successful experience.

Don't that feel comfortable to lean on an elbow-high show case like Garrett's and kinda slump . . . when I do that I just gawk . . . and the most restful thing in the world for an experienced gawker is sompin spick and span, and ship shape . . . pick up the marble mister, you win again . . . my eyes rested on Bert Jeannes Fish market all newly painted a pure white with black trim . . . leave it to an old salt . . . and the cases are lined with fish and poultry that would make anybody water at the mouth.

THE FRIDAY AFTERNOON

By DONALD DUTTON WATERCOLOR

Hurry, hurry, hurry!
This is going to be altogether too short a month, and one thing you must see is the national watercolor show at Laguna. It's only on this month, so be on your way for viewing.

Absence of Laguna painters (those who are in might better have been left out) from this very interesting show once again brings the question (already hinted)—what is the function of a gallery?

It hits the proper note for spring regardless of worth) of individuals who buy a place for themselves in a gallery?

Should a gallery's exhibiting policy cater to an ism, or a personality, rather than indicating the best contemporary expressions?

What is the function of a gallery?

Turning now from function, the month's show at Laguna is a quite significant accomplishment.

It hits the proper note for spring seeing, it takes from a number of schools, and it is mostly good painting.

Jules Billington's "Flood" (first prize-winner) took more than one look, but answers the requirements.

Rex Brandt's "Sunset on the Rincon" is very impressive, conveys much that is mood.

Charles Safford's "Storm" and Jaime Ahrens' whimsical "Agua" are worthy of their honors.

After the prize pictures, one sees the qualities that won the Chicago institute award for Milford Zornes in his magnificent "Superstition Mountain."

I liked Arthur Miller's "Shelter" and Barse Miller's "American Pastime."

Margaret Tomkins has a sophisticated conveyance.

Jean Swiggett's "Some Aspects of Ivan" reveals powers that lie beyond his decorative ability.

Bill Darr shows a growing maturity in his "Mining Town."

Eleanor Colburn continues to amaze, and delights me with her "Two Women," and Norman Chamberlain's "Indian Pilgrimage" is well-suited to go beside it.

Ellen Carpenter has a Renoir-like light in her two papers.

Karl Yens is given too much attention.

Ownstairs there is a well-painted show by Henry Hesse (vice president of the California Watercolor society) along with a number of things I would have liked to have seen upstairs.

In particular, one must not disregard the manifestation of Gloria Zornes' painting-growth in "Las Osas Valley" nor will you want to miss this opportunity to view Emil Kosa's "The Blue Engine."

Summarizing the show, I was impressed with the many names and their contributions to watercolor painting, the return of Tom Craig from monotone (much relief . . . !)

Shows like this give the Laguna gallery prestige. Let's have more of them!

CAMERON SEEKS JUSTICE JOB IN SANTA ANA

H. C. Cameron, Santa Ana attorney, formally announced his candidacy for the office of justice of the peace in Santa Ana township.

Kenneth E. Morrison, present justice, is running for superior judge, and Cameron so far is unopposed for election.

Pledging a "fair, equitable and just application of all laws," Cameron said that if elected he would give "equal consideration to every person who comes before the court."

He has practiced law here for eight years, having been associated for seven years with the firm of Head, Wellington and Jacobs. He is married and lives at 728 Halladay street.

Born in Butler, Mo., he studied law at Washburn college in Topeka, Kan., where he was graduated in 1926. He was admitted to the practice of law in Kansas in 1926, and became a member of the California bar in 1927.

Bible Still Best Selling Book

NEW YORK. (AP)—The Bible is still the world's most widely read book.

The American Bible society said today that 7,328,550 copies of the scriptures were circulated last year throughout the world, in 197 languages and dialects.

It was said that China reported more Bibles distributed than ever before, despite the war.

encouragement of our shy culture ought to be there.

Too often, living music, and living painting are neglected in the haste to venerate a shroud.

Current example (despite my own concern for the composer) is the idolatry of George Gershwin's music.

I do not think there is a finer cultural event at this time in which all of us can participate, and share, to develop a stronger Orange county consciousness.

I'll see you there.

MILLARD SHEETS
Anticipation mounts as Santa Ana nears the Millard Sheets show that is to grace the library these next two weeks.

Planned well in advance, brought to the attention of people all up and down this coast, this exhibition becomes the particularly bright and shining star of the library shows.

Should anyone need reminding, Sheets at 30 has become ranking American watercolorist.

He has just been awarded the $400 Watkins Blair purchase prize in the Chicago Arts Institute annual, has had one room devoted to his work in this show.

He is, to my mind, first American watercolorist to impart to his students (including Zornes, Craig, Darr and Hesse currently at Laguna) so definite an expression as to be termed "the founder of the school of—"

His work is included in the permanent collections of Los Angeles museum, the White House, New York's Whitney museum, the San Francisco Museum of Art, the Dayton, Ohio, Art Institute.

This is one library show you can't afford to miss!

THE FIRST NOVEL...

Earliest known story in novel form, as we know it today, was written about 930 years ago by a Japanese authoress—Murasaki, or "Lady Violet"—and has never been duplicated for length. Her work was known as "Genji Monogatari" (Gossip Concerning Mr. Genji) and dealt with the numerous and amorous affairs of the Japanese Don Juan of that name. Lady Violet devoted a number of years to writing the novel. It eventually covered 4234 pages and filled 54 books, or chapters. Murasaki—her true name is not known—finished the novel about 1004 A. D. The exact date is disputed. Murasaki, a lady of the Imperial court, returned to private life after the death of her husband, according to historians. She was said to have been a member of the famous Fujiwara family which produced a number of great mikados, statesmen and poets. This amazing work is valued as a mirror of the time it was written. Its length has never since been equalled—neither "Anthony Adverse" nor "Gone With the Wind," longest novels of this decade, comparing with it.

NEW YORK. (AP)—Profit selling in the lately buoyant utilities put the stock market on the downgrade today despite a fair amount of support given stock prices by the Federal Reserve.

Jim Wendorf Leading Hitter of Saint Nine

Diminutive Bill Low, this department's idea of an all-American prep school athletic manager, has taken a pencil and pad and sprung a surprise on us.

Bill went to the trouble—and it is trouble—to figure Santa Ana High school's baseball averages from every angle, and they're exceedingly interesting if you Paul Wright have been following Joe Koegler's Saints.

Jim Wendorf, hustling second-baseman of the Saints, who now is playing softball at shortstop for Montgomery Ward, collected 22 hits in 52 trips to the plate for a splendid percentage of .423 in 17 games. Jim hit an even .300 in four Citrus Belt league starts.

Next in line was Tommy Wilkins, the curve-ball pitcher who batted a good .334 in addition to chalking up 138 strikeouts for an average of 11½ for the 12 games he pitched. In his dozen starts on the mound, Tommy limited the opposition to 40 hits for a remarkable average of 3½ per game—and that's pitching, brother!

Gala Opening Planned For Boxing on Monday

Will boxing click here as of old? Can M. J. Levin, the likable promoter they call "Bud," revive the fight game, lure the kind of crowds that flocked to the old Delhi arena a few years back?

Levin believes he can. He has encouraged his new matchmaker, Leonard (Frank) Lockhart of Santa Ana, to round up the best amateur talent in the Southland. Lockhart has had his opening card ready for nearly a month, and has been escorting his fisticuffs to Wilmington, Ontario and other arenas to keep them fight conscious. He promises a good show out at the Highway 101 battle box Monday night.

Chaffey Jaysee's Lads Levy Fines on Seives

Following the plan employed by some major league managers, Chaffey Jaysee's baseball players fined themselves every time they fanned, made an error or other costly play this season in the Eastern conference.

It cost the Panthers $3.10 when Fullerton slaughtered 'em the other day, 22-2. . . . Fourteen players fanned for $1.40, four errors added 40 cents, four passed balls contributed a like sum and the Chaffey pitcher had to fork up 90 cents for nine walks. The "kitty" will be used to pay for a big dinner for the team.

Reaching Deep Down Into Sports Barrel

Joe DiMaggio told a reporter he could "chop" enough base hits to win the American league championship, but the fans like home runs and "I like 'em, too. When you see that fat one coming you swing with all you've got." . . . Charlie Gorman of the Cubs says Lloyd Waner of the Pirates takes the most accurate cut at a ball of any batter he ever saw. . . . Over 4000 people turned out in Birmingham to see two negro teams play. . . . Dizzy Dean and Irv Kupcinet, two of the principals in last year's battle of Tampa, have kissed and made up. . . . Freddie Apostoli, crack San Francisco middleweight, will be out of the ring for three months because of that appendix operation.

DOTS AND DASHES AND ONE OR TWO FLASHES IN SPORT

Since he became a popper, Joe Cronin has been hitting at a .500 gait and most of his blows were for extra bases. . . . Seems Joe, sr., should be passing around the cigars. . . . Jigger Stutz, veteran Los Angeles outfielder, hasn't bought more than three gloves in all the years he has been in baseball. . . . He always carries out a big hole in the palm of the glove and then he is ready to go to work. . . . When someone discards and old glove, Jigger salvages it, cuts out the hole and makes a new one for himself. . . . And don't forget they used to consider Jigger one of the niftiest fielders in the biz back in his days with the then oh-so-daffy Dodgers. . . . Is it true that alumni of William and Mary are trying to land Art Matsu as head football coach? . . . Pickings in the provinces must be good. Al Schacht has added a combination chauffeur and valet. . . . omigosh!

THE FOX, BULL LEA TO SEEK COMEBACKS

Baltimore's $70,000 Turf Classic Lures Upwards of 45,000

By HERBERT O'KEEFE

BALTIMORE. (AP)—Before roaring, restless thousands, Fighting Fox and Bull Lea will seek in tomorrow's $70,000 Preakness to trample into forgotten shreds the formidable question marks they stamped on themselves with their disappointing Kentucky derbies by performances. Upwards of 45,000 turf fans are expected.

Their records, from birth on almost shout that they should be able to race with the stretch-running Dauber, long-shot in the Derby for which Fighting Fox was 7-5 favorite and Bull Lea the heavily played second choice.

Fighting Fox, never out of the money last year, galloping winner of his two pre-derby starts this year, is a full brother of Gallant Fox—and Gallant Fox won the 1930 Derby, Preakness and Belmont classics.

Bull Lea, in the money in six of his 1932 races, created two track records in as many starts at Keeneland this year. His breeding—by Bull Dog out of Rose Leaves—gives him speed from his sire, stamina from his dam.

Dauber, logical choice on the basis of his derby performance, is ready to carry the colors of William Dupont, jr., in the mile and three-sixteenths test, Jockey Maurice (Moore) Peters outlined Dauber's status thus: "The only thing we're scared of is the short stretch." It is less than three-sixteenths of a mile, as compared to the Derby stretch of a quarter-mile, and it is when the horses turn for home that the son of Pennant really starts burning oil. Can't Wait, Myron Slezick's little colt which ran third in the derby, will seek Preakness honors under a new but very able jockey—George Woolf.

SAINTS INVADE RIVERSIDE

Howard Elliott and Melvin Barron, running the quarter-mile and 120-yard high hurdles, respectively, will be Santa Ana High school's main bets when Coach Reece Greene's Citrus belt league champions invade Riverside tomorrow afternoon for sectional qualifying for the annual Southern California prep track and field finals.

The Saints' half-mile relay four—some of Elliott, Jerome Duffy, Wayne Piper and Don Warhurst also should win at Riverside, where 1-2-3 placers from Orange, Sunset, San Gabriel Valley and Citrus Belt leagues will compete for the honor of entering finals at Memorial Coliseum, Los Angeles, a week from tomorrow.

Games Tonight
Santa Ana at Brea.
Whittier at Anaheim.
Irvine at San Bernardino.

By PAUL WRIGHT

One—and perhaps three—of the National Nightball league leaders will occupy a lower rung on the '38 ladder after tonight's attractive round of games which will find Santa Ana at Brea, Huntington Beach at Orange, Whittier at Anaheim, Irvine at San Bernardino.

Skipper "Doc" Smith's Santa Ana Stars, victims of a 13-4 defeat from Orange in Tuesday's opener, will be joined by Stan Jacobsmeyer, their No. 1 pitcher from the University of California, tonight, and will rate on even terms with Virgil Kiger's newly-organized Lions, who celebrated their entrance into Class A company with a striking 13-1 victory at Whittier Tuesday. Brea has a hustling club with several hard hitters, including Outfielder Bob Snell who belted two homers at Whittier. Rudy Montgomery and Lynn Stewart share the mound chores.

Joe Rodgers' Huntington Beach Oilers, who buried San Bernardino with a shower of 16 hits, 12-2, in the inaugural, probably will employ "Fuzzy" Errington instead of the great Venn Botts on the knoll at Orange.

Santa Ana's lineup at Brea will remain the same except for Jacobsmeyer, swinging in the last spot. It includes Tom Denney, lf; Tom Lacy, ss; Merle Hapes, cf; Bob Mott, 1b; Tom Young, 2b; Eomo Koral, c; Chat Coates, 3b; and Fred Cartwright, rightfielder. Game-time is 8:15 o'clock. Admission, 25 cents. The park is located on the Brea High school grounds.

FELLER NIPS YANKS, 3-2

NEW YORK. (AP)—Rawhide Lou Gehrig's dimples broke through a rueful smile. He had just finished fanning for the second time against Bobby Feller's dippy-do's. "Boy," he said, "Anybody's going to be plenty lucky to get a hit off that kid this year."

It didn't matter that "Rawhide" stepped up to the plate a few minutes later and blasted one of Bobby's fast balls out of the lot for two runs; nor did it matter much that Bobby, in taking a 3-2 decision from the World Champion Yankees yesterday, was lucky in being presented with a pair of unearned runs, which allowed the Cleveland Indians to finish on top. What did matter was that the right-arm rifle from "Toway" is so far improved over last year that he looks like two other fellows. His fast ball has a tremendous hop this season.

Lionettes Beaten In Twelfth, 13-12

Orange's Lionettes boasted a victory before it was won and subsequently lost a 12-inning thriller, 13 to 12, to Ballian's Ice Cream club, which dropped the Lionettes into third place in the Major Girls Softball league last night.

HITT'S WARDS WIN, 5 TO 3

Firing its final blast of the practice season before opening defense of the Santa Ana City league title Monday night, Montgomery Ward's softball club posted a convincing 5-to-3 win over Santa Monica's Pilgrims at the Municipal Bowl last night.

The invaders, who had run up a string of 22 consecutive victories, out-hit Ward's 11-6, but then defense was spotty. Erwin Youel tripled and Manager Gene Hitt scored a "fluke" home run during a Ward rally.

Eight Men in Ring Provide All Kinds Of Mat Excitement

By MATT BURNS

Wild "Red" Berry, the Kansas cyclone, knew how it felt today to kick an opponent out of the ring twice, later apply an airplane spin and a Boston crab, and still lose!

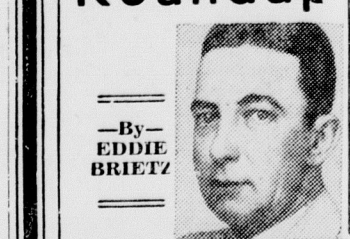

The decision in the "main" event, climaxing a battle royal in which eight wrestlers declared mayhem on each other at the same time, went to the popular Marshall Carter with a body press in 24 min. 56 sec. Josef Smallinski and The Dragon (Paul Buzzell of Okmulgee, Okla.), first to leave the ring during the "battle royal," returned in the preliminary. Smallinski winning with a hammerlock in 8:46. In the second bout, Frank Lipcomb, a newcomer, pinned Frank Clements in 23:52 with a Boston crab, after Clements had dominated most of the bout with clever footwork.

Sgt. Bob Keniston, another first-timer at the Highway 101 hall of horrors, stopped Tony Morelli, the Italian who likes to choke his rivals, in 24:23. The program, one of the longest ever presented at the O. C. A. C., ran until 11 o'clock.

LOS ANGELES BREWING COMPANY, LOS ANGELES

CROCODILE
EATS YOUTH; HAS FUNERAL.

(SANDAKAN, North Borneo. (American Wire) — Mourning is still being conducted here, following the funeral of a 20-foot crocodile. It isn't the crocodile that is being mourned, however.

A native boy was playing in a stream while his mother was washing clothes last week. With a rush, the crocodile grabbed him and dragged him off for a meal.

Several hours later, native hunters killed the crocodile.

Immediately the mother and two Mohammedan priests claimed the body of the creature, claiming that since it had eaten her son so recently, full rites over the crocodile would serve to carry the boy whole and sound into Paradise.

So while the huge beast's body lay in state, surrounded by hundreds of mourners, funeral service was read for the boy and then the crocodile was buried in a huge grave, marked with the little boy's name.

He holds a Ph. D. degree from Columbia university, studied law at the University of Michigan and has been a professor of economics at various universities. Among the rangers are Bing Crosby, Robert Taylor, Fred MacMurray and George O'Brien.

JUDSON DOKE
FREE AGAIN

SAN QUENTIN. (P) — Judson Doke, who shot and killed his wife's poetic admirer in the "white hibiscus" slaying of four years ago, stepped smilingly from the prison here today and said he would rejoin her at once to start life anew on a Washington dairy farm.

Doke was tried twice and acquitted on a charge of slaying Lamar Hollingshead, college poet whose fervid poems called Helen Louise Doke his "white hibiscus."

Then Doke, milk inspector for the city of San Leandro, was convicted of embezzling funds and sentenced to six years in San Quentin.

He said he would leave immediately for Lodi to be reunited with his wife at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Jorj.

The parole officer did not state where in Washington the couple would locate, but it was believed they would go to a farm near Seattle.

Japanese Gambler
Faces Sentence
For Tax Evasion

TACOMA, Wash. (P) — Kane-kichi Yamamoto, represented by the government as interested in gambling clubs in a dozen California cities, was convicted of income tax evasion today by a federal court jury. Sentence will be imposed Saturday.

Yamamoto, operator of a Japanese club in Seattle, reported an income of $7350 as his half of family community income in 1936. The government charged "substantial evasion" of taxes.

Government witnesses testified Yamamoto "muscled in" on Japanese gambling clubs in Los Angeles, San Pedro, Sacramento, Pismo Beach, Guadalupe, Fresno,

GAMBLING SHIP CREW STRIKES

SANTA MONICA. (P) — Ninety workmen today "walked off" the gambling ship Rex, anchored off Santa Monica, and began picketing on the municipal pier in what they said was a protest over their failure to obtain a contract and as an outgrowth of a labor union jurisdictional fight.

Those who left the ship were books, waiters and bartenders, A. F. L. members, and members of the sailors' union of the Pacific and Marine Firemen's union.

Twelve members of the C. I. O. Inland Boatmen's association remained at their jobs of operating water taxis to the Rex.

The sailors union had made repeated protests before the walk-off over the employment of the Inland boatmen.

SAN FRANCISCO. (P) — A variation of the old wheeze, "you can't give me a ticket, officer—I've already got one," failed to work today for Miss Kay Kowsky, 29, of Oakland, a Berkeley Junior High school teacher.

Highway Patrolman Paul Alexander said he caught Miss Kowsky driving 70 miles an hour on the Oakland-San Francisco bay bridge. She refused to sign a citation, Alexander said, explaining she got one last night for running into an Oakland police car, and another would be "superfluous."

Alexander took her to San Francisco city prison, booked her on charges of speeding and failure to have a driver's permit.

The Santa Ana postoffice will supply you with a representative set of Orange county's air mail cachet-stamped envelopes, if you will order them before Monday, according to Postmaster Frank Harwood.

Sixteen postoffices in the county will place cachets, distinctive of the communities they are located in, on all air mail in commemoration of National Air Mail week. Harwood has agreed to obtain a number of these envelopes from the various county cities for the convenience of stamp collectors and others interested. He will make out his order for these next Monday.

600 Miles Onward!

If you laid a 600-mile tapeline down with one end at Tokyo, the other end would just about reach the southwestern extremity of the Japanese island group. Then, if you stretched it again in the same direction, you'd be in the neighborhood of Shanghai.

One additional length of this tapeline, turned more to the southward, would place you at Amoy. And that is where the Japanese landing parties are today. In other words, they are attempting to establish a new seaport base a good long jump away from the one they acquired through so much bloodshed and horror late last summer.

Amoy is located on an island in a bay which indents the Chinese coast at a point opposite the large island of Formosa, which Japan took from China years ago. Control of this important trading settlement naturally is going to be an advantage to the invaders, an added handicap and threat to the beleaguered Chinese.

Nevertheless, it may not serve to shorten the war; instead it may prolong it. Possession of Amoy doubtless will reduce the flow of Chinese munitions and supplies from south China to the armies of central China. It may make it necessary for General Chiang Kai-Shek to hold near Amoy forces which he would prefer to transfer northward as reinforcements.

But, by the same token, this new headquarters in the south is going to constitute just one more source of responsibility and possible worry for the Japanese war lords. For always it will have to be defended. Always it will have to be kept powerful and ready, else Chinese guerrilla attacks will endanger it. Japan already has a long, long line to maintain, and the Amoy foothold lengthens and complicates it. China has many tens of millions of able bodied men, men becoming every month more enraged, determined and united against the aggressors—and they are close at hand. The more widely extended the network which the Tokyo government seeks to hold the greater the problem to hold it grows.

A visitor in Santa Ana commented that here the pedestrian is king of the crossing, as motorists unhesitatingly give the right of way to the walker. Yes, if the pedestrian is hit he at least can have some comfort in the thought that he was right and the driver wrong—if there's any healing salve in that fact.

You Answer, Reader!

A current criminal case brings up a delicate point in ethics, involving both religion and the law, which has never been raised before, as far as we can learn.

A clever police officer disguises himself as a minister, or priest, and visits the cell of a woman suspected of a murder, who had steadfastly denied the crime over a period of years.

By playing upon her religious impulses, a confession was obtained which in turn brought a confession from another person involved.

That, in brief, is the Bassett case, one of the smartest pieces of detective work of recent years.

There are those, however, who question the public policy of obtaining confessions in such a manner. They claim that all persons, including prisoners, should have the right to counsel with men of the cloth with a feeling of security, and that if confession is part of their faith, they should be able to make such confession in the firm knowledge that it will not be used against them.

If detectives masquerade as ministers, they say, then all prisoners will live in fear of making confession and receiving spiritual consolation from anyone, for fear the person to whom they speak represents the law instead of the church.

As you see, there is a very interesting question raised here.

On one side is a splendid example of detective work, accomplishing exactly the purpose for which it was intended, and serving the law as well.

On the other hand, is this question of whether or not a detective is justified in putting on sanctified garments in order to obtain such a confession.

It's a real puzzler. What do YOU think?

Half a million men were killed in the American civil war's four years, while a million have died in the Spanish conflict in less than two years. War is getting more deadly. The mind shudders to think of the slaughter in the next general outbreak when considering the casualties of the small, isolated strife in Spain.

A Tip for Gov. Merriam

We hope that Governor Merriam hears about the action taken by Governor Martin of Washington.

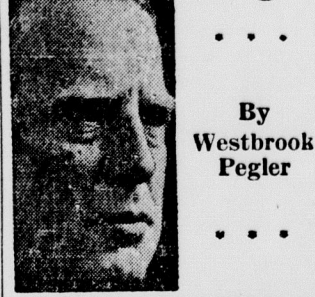

Says the northern executive:
"Instead of figuring out how to raise more money to spend, I am going to call department heads together and get them to figure out how such money as is available may best be spent."

Martin's statement is real news because it is so unusual.

The past few years it has been the custom of many units of government to start each year with certain sums to spend, to build up whopping deficits. Too many tax spenders spend as THEY wish, leaving the public to foot the bill.

Governor Martin's plan of figuring out how much money there is to spend, and then making a strong effort to keep within the amount is a real step toward financial stability that California well could adopt.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK.—Senator Green, of Rhode Island, says a magazine called Rural Progress, to which Glenn Frank contributes editorials, is published only to spread propaganda against the New Deal. This magazine is under investigation by the senate lobby committee, of which he is a member. Senator Green obviously considers that the dissemination of propaganda against the New Deal is a wicked business.

There are others, however, who regard this as a patriotic work.

The word "propaganda" came to have a nasty meaning with us during the World War, when the Allies and the Germans were pulling and hauling at us to enlist our sympathies. Actually, however, propaganda is not necessarily wrong. I suppose I might be regarded as a propagandist for the extension of the federal income tax to the salaries of some three million and odd employees of the state, county and municipal governments. If so I am acting well within my rights, and I am ready to defend the justice and wisdom of my proposition.

I suppose I might be regarded as a propagandist against the conduct of the senate lobby committee, too. If so I am still within my rights, and again I am able to defend the justice and wisdom of my proposition. I contend that this committee is much more dishonest and subversive of good government in its failure thus far to investigate or even acknowledge the existence of administration lobbying than any single magazine could be disseminating propaganda, even though that propaganda was a little bit dishonest.

Same For All

I contend that a committee of the senate which uses the committee's authority to investigate any matter is bound to investigate both sides and treat them alike. If it goes after one side in the manner of a county prosecutor trying to earn the honored nickname of Ropes by sending frightened and tongue-tied prisoners to the gallows for murders which they may not have done, then it should call up lobbyists from the other side and tear into them with equal cynicism.

This committee hasn't done that and shows no intention of doing anything of the kind, so it is my opinion that the committee is abusing its authority, shirking a duty and doing more harm to the country than this little magazine did, even if it should be granted that everything alleged or intimated against the magazine is true. If the committee doesn't go after the lobbyists who lobbied for the reorganization bill it will cheapen the senate and give the people to believe that they have lost the right to oppose the dominant political party's measures, except at a considerable risk.

I don't know by what process it could be done, but I seriously propose that this lobby committee be investigated and that the members be placed on the stand and questioned regarding conversations which they may have had in deciding whom to investigate and whom to ignore.

It's All Wrong
And if propaganda against the New Deal is, of itself, investigable (hold 'er, Newt!), then propaganda for the New Deal is equally investigable. And if it is wrong to spend $90,000 in three years running a little magazine in opposition to the administration, then it is X times as wrong for the administration to employ great numbers of press agents, mainly ex-newspaper men with political connections, at public expense to make propaganda for the New Deal.

When it comes to propaganda this administration is in a class by itself, and analysis of that propaganda would show the same proportion of untruth or half-truth that could be found in the anti-New Deal material. In fact, this lobby committee itself is doing little else than make propaganda for the New Deal.

I don't suppose it ever can be compelled to happen, but I still like to think of a scene in which members of the United States senate are placed on the stand and forced to tell under oath who lobbied them in favor of the reorganization bill, naming names and reporting in detail what promises and threats, if any, were employed in an attempt to force them to vote for the bill.

This piece is propaganda for the pious purpose of keeping the lobby committee honest.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—RFC Chairman Jesse Jones may have gotten off more than he bargained for when he put over his $1,500,000 loans-to-industry coup.

It will be recalled that Jesse jammed this measure through congress when he got word that Secretary Morgenthau and SEChairman Douglas were proposing a system of regional government credit banks to provide small business men with much needed capital.

Ever since 1935 the RFC had had the power to lend up to $300,000 to small business, but all that time had loaned out only around $100,000,000—this despite the recession.

Since then, Jesse has galvanized into action, for two very good reasons. One was to keep the RFC, and himself, in the forefront as a potent agency; two, to keep a tight grip on the top of government spending.

With his eye on the White House in 1940, Jesse has been quietly booming himself in big business and banking circles as an economist and "Jeffersonian" democrat. But in this strategy he overlooked one thing.

When the $1,500,000,000 loans-to-industry bill was enacted, it was widely touted as a great boon to little businessmen. Both the president and Jesse acclaimed it as a major feature of the administration's recovery program. These assurances have been taken seriously, and now by the thousands from all parts of the country, applications for a slice of that enthusiastically publicized melon have been flooding the R.C.

Tight-Fisted Jesse
But Jesse is not dishing out. He is being just as tight-fisted with the $1,500,000,000 as he was with the $300,000,000 fund. And just as secretive.

Repeated efforts to find out how many loans he has granted are met with stony silence. Jesse won't even make public the number of applications he has received. It is said that positively, however, that they run into the many thousands. More than 5,000 have been filed in New York alone. Best inside information is that no more than $15,000,000 so far has been earmarked.

While succeeding in his purpose to hold down government spending, Jesse is getting himself very badly in Dutch on his presidential ambitions. Little businessmen, unable to get the government credit so glibly promised them, are bombarding their congressmen with hot denunciations of Jesse and demanding his scalp.

It is not unlikely that before the session closes the matter will be aired on Capitol Hill in a manner that will do Jesse's burning White House hopes no good.

In the house he immediately forged to the fore as a labor champion, and while still a rookie he put through the famous Walsh-Healey Act requiring employers with government contracts to observe the 40-hour week and pay the highest prevailing wage in their industry.

It was winter in the country. The kitchen was one of the few really warm rooms in the old farmhouse. He was courting. It was in the good old days. After many early evening calls his family asked how he liked the young lady. "Like her first rate. She swept all around me and never asked me to move."

Science News

By J. NE STAFFORD

An important first step toward bringing order out of the present rather chaotic state of knowledge concerning the world's chief dental affliction, caries or tooth decay, has been taken by the research commission of the American Dental Association.

Caries is probably the most widespread dental disease. It has been blamed on everything from civilization to lack of vitamins and lack of tooth brushes—or failure to use them. Your dentist may be in almost as much of a fog about the cause of this condition as you are, though fortunately he knows what to do for it when he finds it in your mouth.

An enormous amount of research has been done on the problem, but each new report seems to contradict the last. Investigators of the problem have themselves revised their own opinions in the light of later knowledge. No general agreement, however, has yet been reached, and the research continues.

The helpful step taken by the dental association is to undertake a correlation of all the work. This is not to be a mere report, although such a bibliography will be included. It will consist in publication of a summary of the findings and conclusions of all scientists who have engaged in research on this problem. It will be up-to-date, presenting the latest conclusions and findings of these scientists. Dentists and other investigators throughout the world have been asked, in an open letter from the American Dental Association, to contribute summaries on their own work. The request has been made by the dental association's research commission, of which Dr. Daniel F. Lynch of Washington, D. C., is secretary.

The information thus assembled will be published and, it is hoped, lead to correction of mistaken ideas, agreement on some points, and point to the most profitable lines for further investigation. It will also give dentists advanced knowledge on which to base methods of practice.

What Other Editors Say

WHOSE CIVIL LIBERTIES?

Senator Minton's lobby committee has been preparing to investigate the opposition to the reorganization bill. It is charged that several wealthy men financed an organized effort to evoke public protests and influence congressmen against the bill. Senator Minton has even obtained from the treasury authority of doubtful legality to open the income tax returns of these men. So far the committee has shown no disposition to inquire also into the charges that support of the bill was obtained by the administration through threats or promises to members of congress.

Will the Civil Liberties union demand such an inquiry? And will the daughters of the American Revolution, who cheered an attack on the national labor relations board and the senate investigators also attack the denial of free speech to CIO unionists by Mayor Hague in Jersey City? The bill of rights will be more secure when Americans are as ready to defend the civil liberties of those they oppose as of those they support.—Christian Science Monitor.

I don't know why some actors fidget that they have'ta put on a "front." No matter how much money they're making, they always have'ta give the impression that they're makin' a whole lot more.

The other day an actor was complainin' to me that his income had been chopped in half and he was goin' in debt all the time. I says, "Well, why don't you try living within your means?" He drew himself up indignantly and says, "Well now, I may be poor, but I ain't that bad off."

CARNEGIE'S

Day —By— Day Philosophy

Elmer Wheeler, in his book or salesmanship, entitled "Tested Sentences That Sell," has a most interesting chapter on the technique of the fountain pen. Not how to fill a fountain pen, or how to keep it from leaking, but how to get somebody to use it for you.

One fatal thing, he says, is for a salesman to get a customer up to the point where he is about to sign, then whip out a fountain pen and thrust it at him as if he were out on a Missouri farm sticking a shoot. No, indeed. Handle the pen as delicately and as skillfully as a surgeon wielding his scalpel. Get it out before you need to. Let the customer become accustomed to the sight of it. Let him get chummy with it.

SUCCESSFUL SALESMAN

Get it into the customer's hands, if possible. One successful salesman brought along a teaser—that is a small pad of paper—and put it tantalizingly in front of the customer. The customer could not refrain from picking it up and beginning to mark on the pad. Then the salesman dexterously took away the pad and put the contract near him. Well, human nature is human nature; and before he knew it the prospect was signing his name to the contract.

In the salesman's dictionary there is no such word as "if," says Mr. Wheeler. The word is spelled W-h-e-n. Here are some examples of how to substitute "If" for "When."

WRONG: "If you decide to buy it, I'm sure you'll enjoy it."

RIGHT: "When you buy it, you'll enjoy it."

WRONG: "If you go for a demonstration ride, I'm . . ."

RIGHT: "When you have a demonstration ride, you'll . . ."

Excellent psychology, Mr. Wheeler.

Often there's only a hair's difference between a sale and a rejection, and it's just such a small matter as knowing the difference between "If" and "When" that puts the sale over.

BARBOUR HOME

I recently spent the week-end at one of the show places of Winter Park, Fla.—the beautiful landscaped house of Robert Bruce Barbour. The Barbour home is beautified with rare rugs and old tapestries whose colors have been mellowed by the passing of centuries. The tile on the roof was made in Spain two hundred years ago. And yet with all his wealth, Robert Bruce Barbour has a simpler breakfast than you probably had this morning. The morning I had this breakfast with him on a card table in the library he had a glass of milk and a sliced orange—nothing more.

The average wealthy man probably eats less than the butler who serves him—and he probably enjoys his food less. The morning I had this breakfast with him on a card table in the library he had a glass of milk and a sliced orange—nothing more.

Andrew Carnegie amassed a fortune of four hundred million dollars and yet his favorite dish was oatmeal and cream.

You can eat like a millionaire. In fact, you probably eat more than most millionaires.
